Why Eco Education in 2019?

By Tressa Colmer

When top experts from everywhere keep telling us that the earth is at a tipping point beyond which humanity cannot survive, what do we do?

Previous generations were born into a beautiful, abundant world full of diverse species, crystal clear streams, ancient forests and deep oceans, lush jungles and enough of everything for everyone for a long time to come. Can we imagine not fighting for our children to have the same? Can you imagine joining us in making a difference?

We choose to act, and turn the tide, find and implement new systems and – most important of all – call in the kids.

Meet Simon Tatt, cameraman de luxe!

We call upon authors, scientists, celebrities, and all innovators who are creating solutions, to engage in and lead discussions with us in this most important journey. New systems of nutrition, agriculture, health, zero waste, renewable energy, water use, restored and respected ecosystems, conserved wildernesses and a return to the abundance of nature...that is our vision!

Time to Take Action!

We draw on the best of traditional wisdom and future technology. We examine the mistakes made by past civilizations. We hold a space for new, fresh thinking to occur, to bring solutions that are relevant for today's challenges. We invite the world audiences, their ideas and their energies into this process.

We let nature lead us to the wonders of science, mathematics, language-arts, drama, music and art, in a quest to bring global awareness of our earth's fragile existence. Anyone, from anywhere, can download presented video lessons and, through our field trips and experiential activities, can apply each lesson to their own local surroundings. This new eco-based comprehensive education will bring long lasting change to our planet.
